Read the passage to answer question.

The approach of Christmas is also heralded by the Christmas sales in the shops, many of which are very lavishly decorated. As Christmas gets nearer, the postal services are extremely busy, so busy that thousands of temporary postmen have to be engaged, delivering Christmas presents and Christmas cards. Nearly every household decorates its living room with paper decorations and sprigs of holly and mistletoe. In the place of honour there is usually a Christmas tree, a small fir tree decorated with candles, bright little ornaments and coloured lights. Christmas presents are collected from the tree on Christmas morning. Young children also find small presents when they wake up on Christmas morning in the Christmas stocking that they will have hung up empty at the foot of their beds before going to sleep on Christmas Eve.
